there was an aircraft observation point (obserwacyjny punkt samolotow) directly across the street. This aircraft observation point consisted of one two-story brick building, 80 x 40 m. with a red tile-covered gable-type roof. A steel and wood constructed observation tower was located on top of this building. it was common knowledge throughout the 41st Regiment that this was an aircraft observation point. The observation unit consisted of about 30 NGO's and 10 to 12 officers. The NGO's wore anti-aircraft artillery insignia on their uniforms and the officers wore anti-aircraft artillery and air force insignia. No radar was observed. One 60 m. high metal antenna mast was observed. The observation tower had some meteorological instruments. He mentioned a wind indicator only. He could not elaborate further.
